TWITCH

As we were walking through the depths of the forest towards the portal place, we got unlucky and encountered a king grizzly. Before their winter rest, king grizzlies are quite fierce and troublesome. I could easily deal with one if I were alone, but right then, I risked putting Reszurre in danger.

With no other choice, I put a hand on my blade, but then I heard a voice coming from behind. It was neither a cry nor a song–just a clear, resonant voice–and it belonged to none other than Reszurre. As soon as the bear heard her voice, it calmed down and returned to the bushes. That may have been the first time I saw Reszurre act like an elf, a resident of the forest.

You can... talk to animals?

I'm... not sure... It was... scared... so I...
